

Life is a mystery..... Who thinks life could be spoofed up if it had more mystery in it??? We disagree! Both of us have learned about our personality traits, while in training. Megan is a driver and a detailer. Parker is a detailer and harmonizer. We don't want to bore you with the descriptions of such traits, but these words should be pretty descriptive enough for you to understand and have that –“ah yes, that's them”- moment.

We have experienced OM's (Operation Mobilization) enjoyment of mystery. At our USA training we were dropped off at the Atlanta airport with a team, $8 in change, and a note stating “search for ..... person”. In Germany, during our training we endured mission possible- a realistic extreme visa/immigration process. And now at MDT (Mission Discipleship Training) Parker took on a mystery challenge. This ended up being a 5 hour walk/29Km in the middle of the night; unexpectedly. Don't worry, all the men on base did this too; and all returned tired with many blisters on their feet. We also have the enjoyment of many many more events that our leaders have planned for us without many details. So as detailer's we struggle. Sometimes it is with the wanting to know all the details before we proceed, sometimes it's just needing to know a time of when. When you leave a lot to our imaginations, assumptions happen... these can be misleading.

Our latest outreach was to Lesotho, Africa. We knew we would be in a team, have to plan programs, pray together, and sleep on the ground. We were also able to find out that showering was limited as was the water. We would have to buy and butcher a few chickens, cook every meal over a fire, and walk... everywhere. The mystery-was How was God going to use us? What purpose did we have in the kingdom of God? And how can we show God's love and Great News?

Prayer Points

* Please pray for us and others who are searching for a car for us to use/buy while we stay in Pretoria. This is a very long process.

* Please pray for those in search for housing for us when we finish MDT. This too is a very long process. And we would greatly appreciate guidance for a safe place to live that is affordable to our budget.

* Transitioning is difficult no matter where you are, please pray that we use grace and give grace for those rough times.

* We also are seeking prayer for new relationships that last, mentors to come into our lives and stay, and to keep an open heart and open mind to this new experience.
